

Minor Hotels — Earned Media Report

Prepared by: Travel Daily Media
Period: January 2017 – April 2026
Date: April 2026

Executive Summary

Minor Hotels has been one of the most consistently covered hospitality groups across our editorial output over the past decade. Across the period under review, we published 82 unique editorial pieces in which Minor Hotels or one of its brands is the direct subject. At the agreed flat valuation of USD 1,800 per piece, this represents a cumulative Earned Media Value of USD $147,600.

Our coverage of the group has accelerated noticeably in recent years. The period from 2024 through to early 2026 alone accounts for 48 of the 82 pieces — well over half of the decade's total. 2025 was the standout year on our platform with 26 articles, driven by our reporting on the Colbert Collection launch, the group's brand refresh, the 850-property milestone, and the Gonzalo Aguilar appointment to lead Europe and the Americas. Our editorial focus on the group has been led by expansion stories — new openings, country debuts and management deals — with appointments and financial reporting as the secondary themes.

Strategic Observations

- Our coverage of Minor Hotels is growth-driven. Around 61% of all the pieces we have published on the group are property or expansion stories, anchored in Thailand and the wider Asian region but increasingly weighted toward the UAE, India, the UK, China and Europe. The group's pipeline is producing the news, and our newsroom is converting it consistently.
- Our output on the group has stepped up sharply in the second half of the decade. Average annual coverage rose from 6.5 pieces per year across 2017–2020 to 12.2 pieces per year across 2023 to early 2026 — driven principally by the surge in 2025.
- Anantara and the NH portfolio dominate our brand-by-brand coverage, with Avani consistently featured for its growth pipeline. Newer additions such as the Colbert Collection drove a meaningful share of the 2025–2026 uplift on our platform.
- Our higher-value editorial formats remain under-used by the group. Across ten years, only three pieces appeared in our exclusives, partner-content or long-form interview categories — a clear gap relative to the group's news flow and scale, and one we believe represents an opportunity for the next planning cycle.

Recommendations

On the basis of our editorial record, the partnership between Minor Hotels and Travel Daily Media is in a strong position on volume but has room to grow on the quality of placements. We would propose two priorities for the period ahead: securing one or two senior interviews per year on our platform tied to the brand refresh or a regional CEO, and developing a partner-content series with us around a defined narrative — sustainability, the Anantara experiential-luxury thesis, or the European integration story would each work well editorially. Pursued together, these would build on the announcement-led coverage that is already performing well across our channels and lift the group's profile within our higher-value formats.
